Periodontal Scaling and Root Planning

I understand that I have periodontal (gum and/or bone) disease. The disease process has been explained to me and I understand that it is caused by bacterial toxins (poisons) and my host response to these toxins. I realize that this disease may be painless and without symptoms, but that usually symptoms such as bleeding, swelling or recession of gum tissue, loosened teeth, elongated teeth, bad breath, or sensitivity and soreness may be noticed. Treatment of periodontal disease may include periodontal scaling and root planning, either as a therapeutic procedure, or preliminary to more extensive treatment.

Periodontal scaling and root planning involves the removal of calculus, bacterial plaque, bacterial toxins, diseased cementum (the outer covering of the root surface) and diseased tissue from the inner lining of the crevice surrounding the teeth. The purpose of this procedure is to reduce some of the causes of periodontal disease to a level more manageable by my individual immune system. I understand that my own efforts with home care are just as important as my professional treatment.

Consequences of doing nothing about my periodontal condition may be, but are not limited to:

Increased recession of gum tissue and exposure of root surfaces (as tissue heals, swelling decreases)

Increased sensitivity to hot, cold, or sweets; this may require further treatment, may fade with time, or may persist no matter what is done

Exposed roots may acquire stain more readily

Food may collect between teeth. Proper cleaning techniques will be explained in detail.

If teeth were loose prior to the procedure, they may seem looser immediately after. Usually after healing, teeth “tighten”

Some pain, swelling or bruising may be experienced after treatment.

Infection of the gums and other supporting structures.

I understand the recommended treatment, the risks of such treatment, and any alternative treatment and risks have been explained to me. I understand the fee(s) involved in the treatment as well as consequences of doing nothing.

I give permission for the use of local anesthetic and any anxiolytic and/or sedative medications that may become necessary. The possible side effects of local anesthetics are prolonged or permanent numbness of the lips, cheeks or gums, rapid heart rate, allergic reactions, and reactions with other drugs that you are taking.

If there are any problems, contact the dental office immediately.
